

What's The TRUTH About Argentina's Deal With Iran?

Argentina Says:

“An agreement which Argentina signed with Iran... under which Iranian citizens could be questioned by the Argentine justice system.”

— Republic of Argentina advertisement in the Washington Post, Page A7, 6/13/13

Christina Kirchner,
President of Argentina

Iran Says:

“Under no circumstances will Iran ever allow an Argentinean judge and prosecutor in the [AMIA terrorist attack investigation] case to enter Tehran in order to meet with senior Iranian officials whom Argentina claims are culpable in this case.”

— Majlis National Security Committee member Avaz Heidarpour, Fararu (Iran), via Memri.org, 2/1/13

“Thanks to Allah, with the collaboration of the foreign ministers of Iran and Argentina, the reasonable manner is being seen to solve the AMIA issue, and there is a greater comprehension of the foreign and Zionist factors that were the true causes of this regrettable act.”

— Dr. Seyed Abbas Araghchi, Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister for Legal and International Affairs, quote in La Nacion, 6/19/13

Hassan Rohani,
President-elect of Iran

What Others Say:

“We fear this downgrade to a ‘Commission’ will lead to a dismissal of charges and the whitewashing of this heinous crime.”

— Letter from Senators Kirsten Gillibrand and Mark Kirk, 3/11/13

“We are concerned the real purpose of this ‘Truth Commission’ may be to exonerate Iran.”

— Letter from Members of Congress Matt Salmon and Ted Deutch, 5/20/13
